It uses analysis and planning to evaluate troubled companies by returning them to solvency or reduce the losses and exposure of shareholders and funders. It is also used to identify the reasons for failing performance in the market and instituting corrective measures. Turnaround management involves management review, root failure causes analysis, and SWOT Analysis to determine why the company is failing. The assessment that is described above is a quick intense deep dive into the organization which then enables us to make decisions. Once analysis is completed, a long-term strategic plan and restructuring plan are created dependent on the viability of the asset. We characterize turnaround in 5 phases with distinct start and end points. The solution that we will follow will be dependent on the outcome of the value proposition after the completion of the viability phase;

2. INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

2.1 The PIC is a registered Financial Service Provider (FSP) and is a public entity that is wholly owned by the South Africa Government. The PIC invests funds on behalf of public sector entities.

2.2 Isibaya Fund (“Isibaya”), an unlisted investment division within the PIC was formed to invest in projects that promote social responsibility, infrastructure and transformation both in South Africa and the rest of Africa. The main objective of Isibaya is to generate good financial returns while supporting positive and long-term socio-economic development in South Africa and the rest of the African continent.

The Isibaya fund focuses on the following investment pillars: -

IMPACT INVESTING:

Environmental Sustainability

To invest in projects that offer solutions for sustainable and diverse energy sources and reduces any adverse environmental impact while delivering a real economic return. (These include projects such as renewable energy, energy efficiency, clean technology, recycling and green firms, environmentally friendly construction, green buildings and conservation).

Priority Sector Investments

To invest in projects that contribute to the growth of the economy through job creation, skills transfer, poverty alleviation and rural development.

Economic Infrastructure

To invest in large scale and long-term infrastructure projects that achieve acceptable capital returns while also acting as catalysts to unlock South Africa’s economic potential and attract foreign direct investment. (Qualifying projects comprising of energy, logistics, water, broadband, liquid fuels and commuter transport).

Social Infrastructure

To invest in health, education and affordable housing related projects and businesses that will yield financial returns and contribute to the economic and social development needs of South Africa. (Focusing on Health, Education and Housing).

(Qualifying projects include agriculture, agro-processing, green and renewable energy technology, tourism, and business process outsourcing).

PRIVATE EQUITY:-

South Africa Private Equity

To generate income and capital appreciation by making investments across all sizes of entities: early stage venture capital, small, medium and large sized unlisted companies located in South Africa and the rest of the continent.

Africa Private Equity

To invest in large scale and long-term infrastructure projects that will achieve acceptable capital returns while also acting as catalysts. To this end PIC has taken a conscience decision to become actively involved in supporting entities that it invests in on behalf of its Clients. The focus is to empower entities by facilitating radical interventions by contracting the use of turnaround and value-added services into the terms of all our contracting.

2.3 The current Isibaya transaction services support panel does not specifically cater for interventions of this nature. A specific panel of turnaround and technical experts is being created to allow for rapid response and interventions. The panel will be multidisciplinary by nature and we reserve the right to utilize various service providers and/or experts from different providers on one assignment to maximize impact.

2.4 In essence turnaround can be viewed as a five-stage process which is fluent in nature as a turnaround strategic plan is a fluid document.

2.4.1. STAGE 1 – this is the situation analysis phase which needs to be performed as quickly as possible once the investment or loan has been identified as being nonperforming or requiring intervention.

The following areas would need to be covered in this stage with the appointed lead coming up with a report that highlights what went wrong in the business by considering some or all the following

- Appropriateness of original business case submitted and approved
- Financial analysis of historical figures
- Assessment of financial models that are currently being applied
- Future cash flows.
- Gearing and debt covenants
- Macro-economic impacts both historically and the future
- Micro-economic impact of the value chain within the environment the business operates
- Sales and marketing strategies (including client churn)
- Revenue pipelines
- Competitor analysis
- Requirement for business restructuring
- Operations
- Engineering research and development
- Leadership assessment and suitability
- Personnel requirements
- Environment Social and governance impact

Based on this report, and the opinion of the service provider, a viability assessment will be done which will consider the position of the PIC in relation to the mandates of their clients. This may then result in a turnaround process being approved.

2.4.2. STAGE 2 – Based on the approval to go -ahead there may be a need for leadership change - this comes in the form of the appointment of an expert turnaround CEO, including a support team if necessary, who will take control of the organization to take them through next phases

2.4.3. STAGE 3 – Emergency action stage (crisis control) - the objective of this stage is survival, get control of the business, work to breakeven, raise cash to support turnaround, protect resources and protect assets value.

2.4.4. STAGE 4 - Business restructuring stage (change)- objective of this stage is to create profitability or limit losses through operations, Restructure the business for increase return on assets and investments

2.4.5. STAGE 5 - Return to normal stage (Going Concern) – Seek profitable growth, emphasize profits and returns, build competitive strengths – and where appropriate exit the investment.

2.5 Turnaround professionals and entities will need to demonstrate expertise per category by way of CV's and association agreements with relevant individuals and entities.
